THE DEVELOPMENT OPPORTUNITY

The property has the potential for several development scenarios. We have outlined only three possible development scenarios. There may be other developments scenarios that are not included but could be possible and each buyer should conduct a thorough investigation.

FOURPLEX

Potential to develop a fourplex with two (2) duplexes as seen in many surrounding projects. Pros to this scenario include the flexibility of developable land and ability to develop large units with 3+ bedrooms. Parking should be easily configured within the lot.

BY RIGHT

Potential to develop a “by-right” project up to nine (9) units using the R3 calculations allowed per the zoning code. Pros to this scenario are favorable FAR (floor area ratios) height and unit count. Parking configuration may dictate the total units allowed per LADBS (Los Angeles Department of Building and Safety) parking requirements.

BONUS DENSITY

Potential to develop a TOC (Transit Oriented Communities) project utilizing up to 70% in density bonuses. The site is designated as a Tier-3 (verified) site within the TOC mapping tool provided by LADBS. Pros to this scenario include a significant increase in market rate units, FAR (floor area ratio), height and parking incentives. TOC guidelines should be reviewed with LADBS for accuracy.

All developments should be consulted and discussed with, but not limited to, architects, engineers, zoning consultants, LADBS personnel, and all other respective consultants related to the future development of the property. We do not make any representations or warranties to the development potential of the property. All parties receiving this information must not rely on the accuracy of this information contain herein and conduct a due-diligence review of records, files and documents that constitute reliable sources of information.
